RA is more than pain and joint damage.

RA inflammation can damage organs like the heart and put you at risk for cardiovascular disease. The goal of treatment is to protect you from damage caused by RA inflammation.

Vectra helps by providing an objective, molecular assessment of your body’s RA inflammation to complement your reported symptoms and your doctor’s assessment. By using the Vectra test over time, your Vectra Scores reveal how well your current treatment is controlling inflammation.
FACT: 42% of patients thought to be in low or moderate disease activity by traditional disease activity measure were in high disease activity measured by Vectra and thus at risk for future joint damage\textsuperscript{5,6}

Vectra is an advanced blood test that objectively measures inflammation caused by rheumatoid arthritis. Vectra measures 12 biomarkers implicated in RA disease. Other tests, such as C-reactive protein (CRP) and erythrocyte sedimentation rate (ESR or “sed rate”), only measure one marker. No single biomarker has been proven reliable for predicting future joint damage. \textit{Vectra is the best predictor of your risk for developing new damage to your joints.}\textsuperscript{4}
Understanding Your Vectra Score

The Vectra Score is reported on a scale of 1-100. Patients in the high and moderate categories are considered to have uncontrolled inflammation and may require treatment modification.

Vectra measures 12 biomarkers implicated in rheumatoid arthritis that affect the level of RA inflammation. The scores range from 1-100 with lower scores indicating less RA inflammation and higher scores indicating more inflammation. Patients with Vectra Scores in the low range are at a lower risk of future joint damage.

If your Vectra Score is in the low range, this indicates a low level of RA inflammation. If your Vectra Score is in a moderate or high disease activity category, your doctor may recommend modifying your treatment plan to try to improve your response. An improved response would mean a decrease in your disease activity and also a lower risk of joint damage.

The goal is low disease activity
Vectra Scores over time can help you and your doctor evaluate how well your treatment plan is controlling your RA inflammation.

Your Vectra Score is personalized for you. Because people tend to have higher or lower levels of inflammation based on their age, gender, and level of body fat, each patient’s score is adjusted to account for this. This means that your score accurately reflects the RA inflammation you are experiencing.

You and your doctor don’t need to rely on symptoms alone. Vectra can be used to help guide treatment decisions to take control of your disease.

VECTRA SCORING DESCRIPTION

Vectra Disease Activity Levels:
- Low: 1 to 29
- Moderate: 30 to 44
- High: 45 to 100

Vectra Score measures the concentrations of 12 serum proteins. An algorithm is applied to these concentrations to calculate a quantitative disease activity score on a scale of 1 to 100. The Vectra Score is personalized based on the age, gender, and adiposity of the patient.

RISK OF RADIOGRAPHIC PROGRESSION (RP)

The risk of RP is shown as a function of Vectra Score (see graph, right). The definition of RP is a 1-year total Sharp score change of >5 units. Increased risk of RP means a greater chance of irreversible joint damage.

Patient serostatus may affect the risk of radiographic progression. Thus, the actual risk of radiographic progression may be higher if this patient is seropositive and lower if this patient is seronegative.

Meaningful Change of ≥8 Units in High or Moderate Vectra Scores.

If your score goes up or down by 8 or more units, that means your level of RA inflammation has changed.³
